I’m sitting on a bench be- duche the dude of a delectable sugar maple tree, perhaps in ver- dant growth encouraged by the view I’m enjoying. Who or what wouldn’t be heartened with these delightful surroundings?

Four-tiered set sail on skiffs, their toned teapots guiding them into and out of the steady east wind, looking and turning this way and that, and the multi-col- oured sails energised by the steady lake breeze.

Only weeks ago a much differ- ent scene played out in this same location. One motorist ar- ter the other pounded the shore- line that now shows a single-line of dunes drifted between wooden fences by fours. The shoreline lost, as it always does, against such strong forces of nature. So did the deck, which had its recently anchored metal benches tossed overboard.

Today, however, is differ- ent. The lake breeze is just stiff enough to keep Old Glory and the maritime signals continually flying and a long and glee atmosphere existing now a new up- coming fishing spot.

Beyond the perimeter, a ciga- rette butt shoves its way through the small waves of Lake Erie. Sun worshippers, fisher-people, and swimmers all bask in the sun- drenched day, thankful the op- portunities results. But it sure helps.

Lakeside, Ohio renews my body, mind, and spirit. Given this set- ting, everything seems possible. Enjoy a Historic Tram Tour through Lakeside, starting at the Hotel Lakeside, they will explain how Lakeside’s history shaped the community we experience now. In addition to this, the tour includes anecdotes of the characters who have left their mark.

Tours start in front of Hotel Lakeside. The tour has for sure features entrepreneurs, lakefronts, businesses, hundreds, prairie grass and home diameters.

Lakesiders

At Les Cunningham Day of Caring on June 24, Chip Richter and John Wilkie led the crowd in a song that they wrote in Les’ memory. Below are lyrics to the song.

An infectious never ending smile, and a laugh with no end.
Never failed to say hello if you saw you on the street.
Independence day at Lakeside, love of country is displayed. While in the food court Les kicked off the bike parade? The funniest bike you would never see, cause we knew Les.
If you weren’t talking Cleveland Indians, you wouldn’t have known your staff.
Glued to the TV set, he could never get enough sports.
He sure had his opinions he was happy to express, life was always more, ’cause we knew Les.
Chorus:
His work here now is finished but our grieving’s just begun.
We have peace because we know he has heard, “Well done!”
For leading kids and guiding folks making your life a success, please know that your legacy now has more, “Cause it’s Les!”

New in 2018: Lakeside introduces gift cards & barcodes

This year, Lakeside is excited to introduce Gift Cards as a way to pay for Daily, Weekly or Partial Chautauqua Passes.

As a way to accommodate the expectations of our guests, Lakeside is planning to gradually phase out the Coupon Books, and begin to introduce gift cards that may be exchanged for their Chautauqua Passes instead.

Please note: in the future (when Coupon Books are discontinued), Season Pass holders will be able to purchase a specific amount of gift cards at a discounted price; this value will be equal to purchasing coupon books.

This year, Season Chautauqua Pass holders will be able to purchase Gift Cards. As always, each coupon may be exchanged for a Weekly Chautauqua Pass for the first year of using Gift Cards, they may only be used to pay for admission into Lakeside. They may be redeemed for Daily, Weekly or Partial Chautauqua Passes, or they may be used toward payment of Season Passes. In the future, Lakeside hopes to expand the use of Gift Cards so that guests may also use them to pay for goods at Artisan-N-Cahoots, movie tickets at Orchestra Hall, mini-golf fare, rent-a-boat and other activities and services.

Gift Cards are available to purchase in values of any amount. They are available for purchase at the Hoover Ticket Office or in the Administration Office.

For more information about purchasing and using the Gift Cards, contact Tyler Wilkie at (419) 798-4461, ext. 349.

To help with the tracking and evaluation of our Chautauqua program, Lakeside is also exploring the option of using barcodes on Chautauqua Passes, so that Lakeside can track attendance at the gates, Hoover Auditorium, the Grindley Aquatic & Wellness Campus and other Chautauqua programs.

For this year, the summer of 2018, guests will be able to see barcodes on their Daily and Season Chautauqua Passes. However, these barcodes will have no immediate effect on our guests. Passes will still need to be shown upon entering the gates, Hoover Auditorium and the Grindley Aquatic & Wellness Campus, but the barcode will not be scanned this year.

Lakeside will be annually testing this year’s plan with the help of implementing the barcode system in 2019.

The purpose of testing the barcodes this year is so that Lakeside has a better idea of which features can be used for the next season. For example, there are possibilities of offering convenience features to frequent and seasonal guests in the future.

Lakeside thanks all of our residents and guests for their patience and cooperation as we take steps to better serve and meet our guests’ expectations moving forward.

Lakesiders reflecting on seven years at Lakeside Chautauqua

The Rev. Dr. Ned Dewire
Director of Religious Life & Church Outreach

At the end of my last Lakeside summer, I think that Lakeside Chautauqua is in a very exciting place. I am pleased to see where the religious life program has come, and I am eager to see where it will go in the next seven years.

Shirley and I gratefully thank you, as individual families, the picnic continues to be popular.

Weekly Family Picnic

This summer marks more than two decades of food and fun at Lakeside’s Weekly Family Picnic. The picnic started in 1995 with a package of hot dogs, a bag of chips and a few families. Today, it has grown into one of Lakeside’s most popular events.

The picnic has seen as many as 530 people on a single night. The picnic has grown into one of Lakeside’s most popular events.

Labyrinth: wellness for body & soul

The labyrinth is a sacred space, which, by definition, is where two worlds flow into each other, the visible and the invisible. The finite and the infinite meet to reach the center. Walking the labyrinth is more about the journey than the destination, about being rather than doing, integrating body and mind, psyche and spirit, into one harmonious expression of the brain, resulting in physical and emotional healing, thus well-being. Following the paths can lead to reaching the center.

Labyrinth walks are available from 3-4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at the pavilion at Chautauqua Park.

Hoover Auditorium

Steve Trash will bring his one-of-a-kind scientific show, "Ecology is Awesome," to Lakeside. The show focuses on pollution, conservation, natural resources and the amazing connections that exist in the natural world.

His one-man act, featuring music, tricks and explanations, has entertained more than 25 million people since 1984. He has appeared in theaters, fairs and festivals all over the world with his message of making the world a little bit greener.

One of his career milestones includes creating the "Trash Tunes" for the PBS TV show "Nature." He now spends his days practicing what he preaches. He lives in a green home in the tiny Frog Pond, Ala. The house is earth-themed, designed for thermal mass insulation, features many recycled-energy appliances, has a composting toilet in his backyard and has a 21-panel solar array in his front yard as a power source.

He has made appearances on CBS, ESPN, CNBC and VH1, and has been featured in The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, CNET MarketWatch, Movie Maker Magazine and Alabama Business Magazine.

Since then, he has performed at the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra's annual Yuletide Celebration. He has wowed crowds, selling out theaters in the country, including the New York Pops, Cincinnati Pops, Dallas Symphony, Baltimore Symphony and Oklahoma City Philharmonic.

In recent years, he has expanded his musical repertoire to operatic repertoire. He is also a professional pianist, music director and instructor, and works frequently with high schools, community centers, and churches.

U.S. Founding Fathers

10:30 a.m., Monday: The Story of a Great Man: The Life of George Washington, with Denver Brunsman, PhD

What makes a great leader? This lecture provides an overview of the life of George Washington - not as a man but as leader or in terms of a generative president and, as a result, lost claim to their lands with America's victory.

What made a great leader? This lecture will feature the latest research in answering this question. The colonists were much more “British” than commonly appreciated and the American colonists felt they had no choice but to set their course.

The American victory in the war for independence was not certain. In the fall of 1775, Benjamin Franklin was among the most pessimistic of the American colonists and 1776 for Americans to begin forging a separate identity. Even the first American constitution failed to contemplate independence seriously. Once George Washington had to be supported. For in 1777 Washington was in a war that had already begun.

From Extremism to Inclusion: What Hardliners Joining the Public Stage (Part I) with Rev. Dr. Gary Mason

10:30 a.m., Monday: American Revolution: Opening Stages

The revolutionary war turned to the west on July 4, 1776. The American people. From the current perspective, the most controversial issue at the Constitutional Convention of 1787 appears to be slavery or the creation of a powerful new executive office. But at the time, the hot issue for delegates at the Convention was allocating representation among the different states. The allegiance that early Americans felt for their respective states proved to be the biggest hurdle to creating a new and lasting national union.

Thursday, Washington: A Military Life

1:30 p.m., Thursday: Washington, Hamilton & the Federalist Era with Denver Brunsman, PhD

As the musical Hamilton has made clear, it was crucial for Alexander Hamilton to have George Washington “on his side.” This lecture will examine the collaboration between Washington and Hamilton in creating the federal American government. More than 20 years Washington’s presidency, he served as both a surrogate son and equal to the nation’s first president. Together, they made history, shaping America as we know it. Washington used his prestige and standing with the American people to help his former aide win the presidency. Impressively, Washington managed to invent the presidency, a powerful executive office, in a country that won independence without an executive. As the nation’s first treasury secretary, Hamilton improbably created America’s financial system in the image of its vanquished British foe.

Who was George Washington? What is often considered common knowledge is often wrong in this lecture. We take a light-hearted look at the legends and stories that have surrounded the founder from his lifetime to the present, including the cherry tree myth, the “Washington slept here” stories, and the claim that he met with space aliens.

In the spring of 1775, the Revolutionary War turned to the west on July 4, 1776. The American people. From the current perspective, the most controversial issue at the Constitutional Convention of 1787 appears to be slavery or the creation of a powerful new executive office. But at the time, the hot issue for delegates at the Convention was allocating representation among the different states. The allegiance that early Americans felt for their respective states proved to be the biggest hurdle to creating a new and lasting national union.

10:30 a.m., Monday: Women, African Americans & Indian Americans in the Revolution with Denver Brunsman, PhD

In the past generation, scholars have focused attention on previously marginalized groups in the American Revolution: white women, African Americans and American Indians. Each group experienced the Revolution differently. Although mostly excluded from new political rights, white women enjoyed a unique role in the early American republic as “republican mothers.” They were expected to educate their sons to be productive citizens, which required women to be educated.

For African Americans, the Revolution failed to abolish slavery in the South, but it did instigate a process of gradual emancipation in the North. Meanwhile, white and African Americans realized some limited gains from the Revolution; nothing was redeeming about American independence for Native Americans. They faced a new reality: the US had taken control of their lands with America’s victory.

Financing Lakeside: Is the Lakeside Experience a Value for Families?

Kurt Gelshimer
Lakeside Chautauqua Board Treasurer

As we plan for Lakeside’s future like our founders did in 1873, much more needs to be done to keep Lakeside’s financial situation sustainable and thriving for future generations.

Last week, we discussed Lakeside’s multiple revenue sources and the cost it takes to operate a community and the Chautauqua program. We know that over many years, Lakeside has generously contributed to the major improvements, as well as pay not insignificant entry fees and assessments. Yet, even with those sources, we know much more needs to be done to keep Lakeside viable, relevant and affordable as even we seek to continue to provide appropriate and necessary programs.

You might be thinking, why are we writing this series of articles about Lakeside finances? Is it to tactic to get the community ready for changes in how Lakeside gets its revenue?

In reality, a common best practice of planning for the future is benchmarking the Chautauqua programs against similar businesses, in our case, benchmarking against other similar family destinations or Chautauquas. It’s important that we view Lakeside’s fees and compare these fees to activities in the region and other Chautauqua communities. This comparison will help us make informed future decisions about Lakeside’s finances.

In the second financial article, we’re diving into these regional and Chautauqua comparisons.

1. How Lakeside’s gate fees and homeowner costs compare with other family destinations in the Lake Erie Shores & Islands region.
2. How Lakeside’s gate fees and homeowner costs compare with other Chautauqua communities.
3. Exploring Lakeside’s Future

2018 Family Destination Comparison

2018 Chautauqua Comparison

The Institute’s model is somewhat inclusive for most activities, and they’ve decided to charge extra for those things that majority may not enjoy (arena, theater) or that has significantly operating expense (annual assessments cover minor exceptions, only homeowners are allowed to the grounds).

Homemakers pay an assessment rate roughly 54 percent of Lakeside’s, but on a significantly higher market value.

Over the years, we’ve heard many residents and guests discuss their opinions about Lakeside’s fees. In particular, a topic that often comes up is whether the amenities, as well as pay not insignificant entry fees and assessments. Yet, even with those sources, we know much more needs to be done to keep Lakeside viable, relevant and affordable as even we seek to continue to provide appropriate and necessary programs.

Exploring Lakeside’s Future

Benchmarking and comparing Lakeside’s costs to regional family destinations and other Midwest Chautauquas has been a valuable exercise. It has uncovered facts about costs, different revenue models, operations and financing.

Other Chautauquas operate differently and those models may not work for Lakeside. We can be sure of this: the Lakeside Chautauqua Board of Directors needs to determine whether or not our current revenue model will serve us well into the future. Any changes made must be based on input from our three major constituencies: homeowners, guests and businesses, informed by facts, comparisons and reinforced with education of the community.

Over the years, Lakeside has tried to stick with the “all-inclusive” gate fee concept. The Chautauqua Institute and Bay View clearly generate significantly more revenue per guest/homeowner.
